Evaluation Without Representation?: Pediatric Resident Perspectives on Competency-Based Medical Education

Principal investigator: Dr. Harrison Anzinger, PGY2 Pediatrics

Project: This project explores 1. how pediatric residents perceive Competency By Design (CBD) as impacting their education and evaluation by faculty and 2. what ideas pediatric residents have to improve CBD implementation by programs and faculty, through a qualitative comparative case study of residents currently undergoing training through CBD. Data will be collected from the University of British Columbia, the University of Alberta, and the University of Toronto.

Why do field notes and ITARs suck? An exploratory study on barriers of using field notes and ITARs in competency-based medical education

Principal developer: Dr. Vincent Wong, Department of Family Practice

Project: This project is to design a faculty development teaching module that trains new and existing preceptors and residents in the Family Practice residency program on the elements of a quality assessment report that would provide formative feedback to residents and preceptors and serve to inform resident competency committees. Through focus groups and workshop, the team will explore the factors that contribute to quality assessments in field notes and ITARs in addition to identifying barriers and challenges that exist for preceptors and residents.

Two Birds with One Stone – Improving Teaching through Peer Consultation in Combined Multidisciplinary Clinics at BC Children's Hospital

Principal developer: Dr. Mercedes Chan, Department of Pediatrics

Project: This project is to pilot a Peer Consultation Program at BC Children's Hospital through combined multidisciplinary clinics where ≥ 2 faculty work together in the same clinical space, providing patient care. Peers will observe and provide feedback on their clinical teaching. The project will develop both teaching and evaluation materials including a video to demonstrate different scenarios of how teaching can be done in a multidisciplinary clinic.

Breaking Down Bias: Case-Based Learning Tools for Starting Conversations about Bias in Clinical and Academic Medicine

Principal developer: Dr. Mercedes Chan, Department of Pediatrics

Project: This project is to develop and pilot a series of educational workshops addressing implicit bias contextualized to the learning needs of learners and staff of the UBC Division of Pediatric Rheumatology, Department of Pediatrics. It will produce a framework for a needs assessment on implicit bias training needs, and a repository of, and a guide to use, clinical cases illustrating bias in clinical and academic medical practice for teaching.
