

CAME Webinar

Title: The AIR we breathe: Anti-Indigenous Racism in Health

Date: Thursday, May 15, 2025 – This webinar will be delivered in English

Presenters: The NCIME

Team: https://link.edgepilot.com/s/fcecdbe/qCUmHNzH_EugL0sL5KFrrA?u=https://ncime.ca/our-team/

Webinar Overview:

The National Circle for Indigenous Medical Education (NCIME) course, Anti-Indigenous Racism AIR 101 provides foundational knowledge of Anti-Indigenous racism in Canadian healthcare education and delivery. This webinar will provide a condensed view of the 9- module course and its key concepts.

Learning Objectives:

AIR 101 is designed to provide foundational knowledge that will enable the participants to increase competencies to be able to identify instances of anti-Indigenous racism; understand the concept of anti-racism and ways on how to implement anti-racism in policy or practice. Participants of this webinar will gain critical insights into how to engage with anti-Indigenous racism discourse and tools to stimulate further inquiry and learning into becoming actively engaged in dismantling Indigenous racism in healthcare.

CAME is please to present this webinar in collaboration with NCIME and the Equity in Health Systems Lab.

